Brethren All:

I want to take this opportunity to wish our new W.: Master David Vandembenden and his slate of officers congratulations and good wishes for this New Year. I humbly thank you for your vote of confidence and I assure you I will always work for the benefit of Groveland 190.

As much as there are those of us who say that in our households we run things, the truth of the matter is in most households there is but one boss—and that is usually our spouse. My wife, Sandee, told me she was going to allow me to spend some of my pension by first, flying the two of us to California, and second, by our taking our son and his family on a cruise. She went on to tell me this was an excellent time because our granddaughter is on vacation from school and will remain as such through the first week of January. And so, my Brothers, although I would much prefer to be in Lodge attending to my new duties, I can only promise you I will work diligently upon my return.

If there is one thing that life has taught me it is that growing old is not a solo adventure. As we mature so do our loved ones. I remember fondly our own wedding 48 years ago and the birth of our son 47 years ago. I know that my granddaughter will one day be married with a family of her own. And so I guess Sandee is correct: We have to enjoy life while we're still able.
